THE CAMPAIGN AFTERMATH

By Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman.

The noise inevitable in modern efforts at raising funds for charities has subsided. The rattle of campaign machinery is no longer heard. No more theatrical plays; no more hurried conferences; no more palavering about big givers; no more computing about increasing subscriptions; no more frenzied phone calls. A peace that is soothing has settled over the headquarters of our philanthropic agencies—for the annual drives for funds are over. Toronto this year was blessed with three campaigns—a philanthropic trinity—to bring relief where relief is needed.

In the campaign aftermath, we may well take stock of all three campaigns. What was accomplished by them? Was it accomplished in satisfactory fashion? Are any suggestions for future improvement of technique or policy to be made? Of Toronto's three drives only one attained more than its quota. Another may have reached its objective and a third failed to get the required and needed amount. When a charitable organization is compelled to curtail its activities because of a shortage of funds, not merely one particular organization suffers, not only the prospective recipients of charity, but the community as a whole suffers. All the inhabitants of a city are to a considerable extent interdependent. The health of the most remote district in our city is of vital concern to all in the city. The man who lives on the hill is affected by the health conditions in the ward and vice versa. What is true of health is true of poverty. Poverty breeds crime, disease, juvenile delinquency. If there is poverty in any section of a community, every individual may be affected and every individual should be concerned. The problems confronting philanthropic enterprise are neither Jewish, Christian nor Protestant. They are communal. Though funds may be more effectively distributed and collected at present on a sectarian basis, the problems these funds need to combat are of significance to the entire community. A let-down in the Jewish charities is bound to affect the whole community. Inefficacy or inadequacy of Catholic or Protestant charities is bound to affect the Jewish citizens of Toronto. Our community remains a unity despite our sectarian divisions. The charitable problems of a community remain the concern of all. It is therefore, with regret that we record that some charitable organisations will not have sufficient moneys at their disposal.

As we perused the records of donations as announced in the press we could not but feel that some individuals and firms were giving more than their means warrant while others were giving less in proportion to their means. A contribution in four figures does not thrill us with awe. Many a ten dollar contribution is far bigger proportionately than many a thousand dollar contribution. The biblical injunction called for every individual to give according to his means. This is a sound principle but one which cannot be enforced in charitable work because some individuals have remained small even though their incomes have grown large. The inadequacy of the funds available to meet our social problems, and the unequal and unfair distribution of the raising of funds constitute the outstanding

YIDDISH AT THE HEBREW UNIVERSITY

The endowment by a group of American Jews of a chair in Yiddish language and literature, at the Hebrew University in Palestine, is significant as marking a step in the growth of the University's range of studies.

Some observers have ascribed to this happening the importance of a political event. They see in it the beginning of a process of rapprochement between the camps of the Yiddishists and the Hebraists. The handing over of the cheque by Mr. Shapera on behalf of the benefactors to Dr. Magnes, representing the recipient institution, is regarded as a rite symbolizing the kissing and making-up of two implacable enemies.

Hebrew and Yiddish are not mutually exclusive, and there is no inner contradiction between them to warrant the animosity which has often marred the relationship between their respective sets of disciples. Both premise a unique creative power among the Jewish people continuously manifesting itself in the process of the making of Jewish history. Each had its period of ascendency when it functioned pre-eminently as the medium of expression for the unfolding Jewish genius. Hebrew was the language of the Hebrews during a certain stage of their history. It contains the cultural products of their spirit when the latter was at its best. Owing to historic causes there came a time when Hebrew ceased to register the immediate reactions of the Jewish people to life. Yiddish became the instrument which served that purpose. Now the lovers of Hebrew cannot deny the raw fact of the existence and functioning of Yiddish. Nor can they logically maintain that the period of the reign of Yiddish represents a hiatus in the activity of the Jewish spirit. A people cannot temporarily cease living and expect to resume life at its pleasure or convenience. If the Jewish people were dead spiritually, during the era of Yiddish ascendancy, then there is no hope for Hebrew. On the other hand the votaries of Yiddish must also recognize the dependence of Yiddish creativeness on the nourishment which flows from the roots of Hebrew cultural life. Yiddish culture would be a puny thing if taken by itself and severed from the historic context of Hebraism. Hebrew and Yiddish both represent the vogue of certain periods of history, and each served its function in its time.

In the diaspora where Jewish life is fast losing its distinctiveness, it is madness for those who cherish and wish to preserve Jewish individuality to quarrel over the respective pretensions of the two languages. The two languages have a menial job to perform—the job of helping to preserve Jewish life from submersion. They can both be useful—where and how best is a question of circumstances. Hebraists need Yiddish to help them in their battle against the paralysis of the Jewish spirit. Yiddishists who are interested in the rescuing of the ailing Jewish personality need not let scruples deter them from using the tonic value of Hebrew.

Reasonable people in both camps are well aware that the two languages and cultures are reciprocally complementary, and do not hesitate to work together for their common ideal. It is only the bigoted extremists who are nursing hatreds and fomenting strife.

Cohen—Ittkin

The marriage of Miss Margery Ittkin, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Ittkin, of Lawrence Z. Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Cohen, was solemnized Wednesday, November 9, at half-past six in Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue, Rab. Dr. H. Abramowitz officiating. The chapel was decorated with lupone and palms, chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. The bride, who was given away by Douglas Mire, wore a period gown of white velour moussaline, reaching the ground at the back and with long sleeves extending in points over the hands. Her veil, which fell from a Russian coronet cap of rosepoint lace, extended into a long train; she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and bouvardia. Her only attendant, Miss Emma Abbey, wore a period gown of apple green velvet edged with peach pleated chiffon, and a picture hat of chiffon and velvet to match. She carried a bouquet of sunburst roses. Arthur Vineberg was best man. The bride's mother, Mrs. Douglas Mire, was gowned in black chiffon and chantilly lace over flesh chiffon with a corsage of Columbia roses and she wore a hat of black velvet and tulle with a diamond ornament. Mrs. Lyon Cohen, mother of the groom, wore dove grey georgette embroidered in grey beads, with a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley; her hat was of grey duvetyn with a grey lace veil and a cut steel ornament. During the ceremony Miss Mary Izard, violinist, Bram Sands, 'cellist, and Stanley Gardner, pianist, played "The Swan," by Saint-Saens. They also played during the family dinner which followed the ceremony. The decoration of the dining-room was carried out in the same colours as that of the chapel, plaques of bronze and yellow pompoms forming the centrepieces on the tables. Mr. and Mrs. Cohen will spend their honeymoon in New York. Going away, the bride wore a cinnamon frock, cinnamon broadtail coat with a fox collar, and a velour hat to match. They will live at 388 Olivier Avenue, Westmount. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nathanson, of Toronto.

Roth—Ittkin

The marriage of Sara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ittkin, to Max O. Roth, was solemnized at Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Thursday, November 3. Rabbi Bergre officiated, assisted by Rev. D. Katzman. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white georgette trimmed with flowers made of white velvet ribbon and set in rhinestones. Her veil of net was arranged in cap effect with clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Esther Wexler, of Milwaukee, cousin of the bride, and maid-of-honour, wore orchid georgette with cut-steel beads and carried a bouquet of Dunlop roses. Henry Ittkin, brother of the bride, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Cecile Efros, in peach taffeta, bouffant style, trimmed with georgette and hand-made flowers; Rose Davidson, orchid georgette with rhinestones; Bessie Grossman, peach taffeta, trimmed with gold lace; Mary Abel, pale green velvet trimmed with a rhinestone buckle; and Anne Borts, rose-colour georgette trimmed with taffeta

ENTERTAINMENT FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mesdames Charles Steinhouse and S. Levitt were joint hostesses at a linen shower and bridge for seventy-two guests Sunday, November 6, at the home of Mrs. Levitt, Hutchison Street, complimenting Miss Anna Roback, a bride-elect. Prizes were won by Mesdames R. Pedvis, I. M. Miller, J. Rosenstein, J. Rudaer, J. Blanshay, M. Godel, B. Machlowitch, H. Mendelsohn and Misses B. Saxe, Elinor Diamond and Lily Cohen. The house was decorated in orchid and yellow, with chrysanthemums of the same shade. The guest-of-honour was presented with a leather hat box.

JEWISH STUDENTS WIN IN TWO DUELS

Budapest, Nov. 7.—Two Jewish students who had been forced out of their university by Nationalistic students have put an end to anti-Semitic riots which have been going on in the university for a fortnight and won immunity from further attack on the field of honour.

Bela Glasner, a law student, and Stephen Kiraly, a student of economics, were attacked during the riots. They consulted and decided to demand satisfaction of the Turul, the Nationalist university fraternity, to which their assailants belonged.

They sent their written challenge to the whole organization, offering to fight any two members with any weapons.

The Turul accepted, chose sabres for the combat and selected two of their best swordsmen, Ladislaus Phillip and Franz Bencze. The two Jews did not know the identity of their opponents until they entered the duelling hall.

Neither of them had any experience with the sabre, but Glasner had time for a few lessons before the encounter. Realizing his ignorance, however, he promptly rushed his opponent, struck down his guard by sheer strength and slashed upon his cheek. Phillipp refused to give in and fought back until he was so weakened by loss of blood that he admitted defeat.

Kiraly, a tiny man, was opposed to Bencze, a giant of such a menacing appearance that the referees wanted to prevent the bout. Kiraly insisted on fighting and, although his weapon was almost as big as himself, he adopted Glasner's successful tactics and opened with a rush.

The little man's unorthodox style and fierce though unscientific attack kept the big fellow so busy that he was unable to use much of his skill. Kiraly maintained the offensive for most of the eight rounds and the battle ended in a draw.

The result of the duels has put the Nationalists completely out of countenance and Bencze has come in for a great deal of ridicule because he could not disarm an opponent half his size and ignorant of the use of his weapon.

Both Glasner and Kiraly explained afterward that they were not only angered by the attack on themselves but felt the life of all Jews in the university would be unbearable if they did not make themselves respected in a way the Nationalists could understand.

The only attempt since the duel to boycott Jewish students occurred in a physiology class and it collapsed when Prof. Geza Farkas told his class that no further anti-Jewish demonstration would be tolerated. He added that the university would be closed if one were attempted. He referred sarcastically to the duel and advised overeager Nationalists to learn a little racial tolerance.

AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT IN PALESTINE

The first general agricultural exhibition was opened recently at Haifa by Lord Plumer. Many Jewish exhibitors won prizes for exhibits of eggs, nursery exhibits and exhibits of almonds. Half the proceeds of the exhibition will go to the fund for the relief of the earthquake victims.

A company for the purpose of promoting banana-growing in Palestine is now being formed. The first plantation will be started in the spring, at Migdol, near Tiberias, where over 100 dunams of land have been set aside for that purpose, and the first crop is expected to mature during 1929. The initial capital of the company will be $25,000, and if the venture is successful the amount will be raised to $50,000, and further increases will be made as deemed advisable.

Professor Otto Warburg, who is interested in the scheme, expects that banana plantation in Palestine will be highly successful. He hopes that the banana will become an article of export from Palestine equal in volume to the export of Palestine oranges. If the work is successful the whole of the Jordan valley, irrigated by the Rutenberg Electricity Works, will be available for banana plantation.

With a view of encouraging agriculture in Palestine a duty of fifteen per cent. has been issued by the Government exempting from import duty all agricultural machinery, implements, tools and spare parts, including milking machines, incubators and also such tractors as are not used in any other work. Manufactured goods ordinarily pay a duty of 11 per cent.

Through the gift of Baron Edmond de Rothschild, a synagogue is in the process of erection midway between the two Jewish Galilean colonies, Vavneel and Beth Gan. The cornerstone was recently laid there in the presence of a large number of colonists from these and neighbouring settlements.

Sermon, November 19, "Our Conception of Prayer"; November 20, "Torah Reading." Study Circle met Sunday, November 13, for first time. Rabbi Stern spoke. Outline of Jewish History will be studied. Next meeting November 27. Board of Temple Centre met November 16 at 8 p.m.

Peter Dobrofsky read the scripture lesson at assembly of religious school, November 13. Miss Freda Katz gave the moral lesson. Rita Gutfarof played the piano. Kenneth Van Gaen recited. Miss Janet Alfandri is directing a Chanukah play for the children. In the absence of Mrs. Leo J. Neumann, Miss Alfandri took charge of the story hour, November 13.

Evelyn Benjamin is training a children's choir for Sabbath services. Members are Bram Rubinowitch, Sidney Medine, Kenneth Van Guen, Mortimer Levee, Amelia Keyfitz, Gertrude Keyfitz, Lucille Fels, Elsie Vineberg and Rosebud Margolick. Dr. Harold Korn, of New York, will give an illustrated lecture on the beginnings of American Jewish history, November 21, at the Brotherhood dinner and meeting. Reservations from Miss Sarah Cohen, Westmount 4104.

Rabbi H. Abramowitz told the Sisterhood that the Talmud devotes no less than five treatises to the rights of wives, mothers and daughters of Israel, Dr. Abramowitz stated. "God has given more intelligence to women than he has imparted to men," the lecturer quoted. The Jewish law on marriage and the marriage contract is the charter of the wife's rights and imposes all obligations upon the husband. In it he is not lord and master, but provider and protector, Dr. Abramowitz declared. "The paramount duty of woman was in the home; the family is still the unit of society and the home the cornerstone of civilization," said the lecturer. "In modern times woman's sphere has grown larger than ever before. To-day the woman does not have to devote all her time to home duties. Modern conditions have made it unnecessary. The future of our civilization will be greatly determined by the use to which woman will put the spare time she has to-day," he concluded.

Mrs. L. Galler sang, accompanied by Miss Mildred Silverman, who played two piano selections. The meeting was opened by Mrs. J. N. Neumann, the chair being taken during the musical programme and lecture by Mrs. J. Kruger. Tea was served under the convenership of Mrs. J. Roston.

evils of our present philanthropic systems. Some method to supervise both should be devised.

One feasible suggestion itself: a charity tax on incomes, imposed and collected by the city would cure both evils. Funds would be easily forthcoming and easily and surely collected. Much of the waste of the present system would be avoided. Energies and emotions would be conserved. The poor would get their dues and the charitable problems which are communal problems would be met in a communal way. And the charity slacker would be eliminated.

GRANDSON HEADS COMPANY

Active direction of the extensive corporate enterprise known as Gimbel Bros., Inc., New York, has passed in large measure to the third generation of the Gimbel family, with the election by the Board of Directors of Bernard F. Gimbel to the Presidency of the company.

The new president of Gimbel Bros., which in addition to three large departmental stores in New York operates stores in Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh and a branch in Paris, succeeds his father, Isaac Gimbel, as the active head of the business. Isaac Gimbel, who has been president of Gimbel Bros. ever since it was organized as such, was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors, succeeding his brother, Charles Gimbel.

At the same meeting Richard Gimbel, son of Elias A. Gimbel, was elected to succeed his father as treasurer.

Before these changes, Bernard F Gimbel was first vice-president and his cousin Richard was secretary. The latter does not relinquish the office of secretary, but becomes both secretary and treasurer.

The story of the growth of Gimbel Brothers to its present position of one of the largest department store enterprises in the world dates back to the establishment of a store in Vincennes, Ind., eighty-five years ago, by Adam Gimbel, native of Bavaria, who came to this country in 1840. He was the grandfather of the new head of the business.

Adam Gimbel had seven sons and every one of them entered the store and learned the business from the ground up. In time they took over the business.

The first expansion was the acquisition of a store in Milwaukee in 1887, the next was to Philadelphia in 1894, and in 1910 the present Gimbel Brothers' store, occupying the block on Sixth Avenue, between 32nd and 33rd Streets, was opened. The comparatively recent acquisition of a store in Pittsburgh and of Saks-Herald Square and Saks Fifth Avenue in New York were later steps in the expansion program, the last of which was the purchase of the eighteen-story Cuyler Building at Sixth Avenue and 32d Street for a service building.

The new president has been with the business since his graduation from college. He is the eldest of the third generation of the family, and his elevation to the presidency is in keeping with the traditional Gimbel policy. It does not mean that any of the surviving sons of Adam Gimbel have relinquished their interest in the business.

Bernard G. Fimbel, in addition to his business interests, is active socially and is prominent as a sportsman.

There are about 800 women in Warsaw who have been separated from their husbands on account of the American immigration laws. A special office has been opened by the Union of Polish Rabbis to deal with this problem, which has been causing great misery to many families. It is said that most of the husbands of these women are declarants for American citizenship.

SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION

IF the Service Station man tested your car to twenty below and you froze up, he didn't have an ALCO-METER.

IF you ask him for an ALCO-METER test, and he hesitates and offers to make a test with a tester, he hasn't got an ALCO-METER.

IF he displays a MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE sign, he will be glad to show you the MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE Alcohol drum and the ALCO-METER. Take a look at it. You will find it different to the common ordinary tester.

IF he won't show them to you, let us know, and we will investigate for your protection.

There are no "ifs" in connection with MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE Alcohol and ALCO-METER Service. Four years of Dominion-wide service without any complaints is sufficient evidence that it is the only SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION.

You only buy the quantity of MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE necessary to give protection to the cooling system of your car and add the water which costs you nothing. It will not injure any part of the cooling system or pump.

ALCO-METER tests are free and gladly given and guaranteed, because the service man knows he can't go wrong with an "Alco-Meter."

Avoid preparations with a high boiling point as they give no warning when the engine becomes overheated to a point that would cause injury.

Remember the usual crop of new preparations will appear this year same as before. Stick to the tried and proven MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER Service.

The Alco-Meter

Winter Service is not complete without MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER Service. Only MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE dealers give ALCO-METER Service. It is FREE. Have your mixture tested often. It takes only a few minutes.

COMMENTARIES

By Rabbi Harry J. Stern, of Montreal
Associate Contributing Editor

Jewish Self-Criticism

We addressed the members of the Bnai Brith on the above theme. They liked it. We were rather surprised! Most Jews dislike self-criticism. Most Jews are fond of those discourses which glorify the record of our ancestors and which cry out against our enemies. Yet we are of the opinion that nothing is more needed in Jewish life to-day than what our pages termed it—"cheshbon ha-nefesh"—self-searching. We are all too anxious to educate the "goy"—to show him the error of his ways. Rather should we devote ourselves to our own education and self-cultivation.

The Aristocracy of the Educated

Temple Emanu-El has inaugurated classes for adults in Jewish history and literature. We are happy for it. After all, in Jewish life there is in reality one kind of aristocracy—that of the educated. The men and women of education are the only nobility which democracy shall recognize. Nobility by the grace of the purse or the accident of birth is intolerable. In Jewry the learned man was ever the aristocrat. We know of no enemy more dangerous to Jew and Judaism than ignorance. The Synagogue must ever foster Jewish education.

Yiddish at the Hebrew University

When we attended the Hebrew Union College, one of our devoted professors would spend hours in attempting to prove to the embryonic rabbis that Yiddish is no language. But we "Yiddishists," who spoke and read Yiddish, were convinced otherwise. We, who read Mendele's works, loved to wedge in a Yiddish phrase even in our academic, theologic discussions. Alas! to the disappointment of our professor, the Yiddish language and literature will be taught at the Hebrew University in Palestine. And we are glad! The Hebrew University is thus rebuking those, who, out of ignorance, spoke of Yiddish as "the language of our degradation." We advise the authorities of the Seminary in New York and that of the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, to establish chairs in the Yiddish language and literature. The creative work of Peretz, Sholem Alechem, Ash and Raisin are as important as the study of Aramaic and Torgum.

What Price Judaism?

"American Jews have spent sixty-seven million dollars for the erection of synagogues and temples since January, 1925," is claimed by a writer in the "Reflex." This, to my mind, is an outward show of Jewish religious life. Upon due analysis the erection of these numerous fine temples may turn out to be an expression of material prosperity rather than a mark of spiritual reality and inwardness. Many of our costly shuls and temples mark nothing more than the overflow of financial resources. Judaism is not to be judged by external measurements.

Much Ado About Nothing

Jewish Montreal is gossiping about a "Y.M.H.A. Open Forum Controversy." The "shmus" gives life to our community. Letters are at present being exchanged in the press. Everybody is excited. The whole business is much ado about nothing. We are about to build a Y.M.H.A., and let no one "chas vesholom" find an excuse to withhold his support from the institution. We feel that the great trouble with so many is that they lack a good sense of humour. We do often take ourselves too seriously.

SARAH FISCHER RECITAL

November 8, Sarah Fischer, Montreal's prima donna, gave her first performance in her native city since winning her laurels in Paris at the Opera Comique and in London. In a mediaeval gown of wisteria silk that she had worn in opera as Melisande, and with her dark hair drawn straight back to a knot low on her neck, Miss Fischer was a picturesque personage.

Announcing her encores, Miss Fischer dedicated her singing of "Connais-Tu le Payal" from Mignon, to C. W. Lindsay. Two Debussy songs, "Beau Soir" and "Green," made an effective background for Dupare's "Lamento," with its tragic touch, and the appeal was again varied by the more robust and piquant attraction of Albert Rousel's "Le Bachelier de Salamanque."

De Falla's "Siete Canciones Populares Espagnoles" was the colourful last number.

BOARD MEETING

Ladies' Bikur Cholim Society held a board meeting, November 8, at the home of Mrs. H. Margolese, 5932 Park Avenue. The hostess donated a clock, which was won by Mrs. M. Rosovitch. Tea money netted $6.35. Donations: Mrs. Elicker, $3; Mesdames M. Lefkowitz, B. Cohen and H. Goldstein, $2 each; Mrs. E. Sperber, $1.50; Mrs. B. Halperin, $1.20; Mesdames I. Merson, M. Taub, S. Margolese, C. Darabaner, S. Migicovsky, L. Shapiro, S. Green, M. Gold, A. Poyanner, R. Gold, L. Backler, A. Glassberg, I. Carsley, M. Woskoff, A. Rust, I. Goldman, S. Marcovitz, B. Thaw, M. Rosovitch, I. Cohen, L. Lipsey, I. Epstein, E. Sperber, Caplan, $1 each. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Kauffman, 4965 Esplanade Avenue, on Tuesday, November 22. Bridge and mah jongg at the home of Mrs. H. Glassberg, 488 Bloomfield Avenue, November 29, at 2.30 p.m. Everybody welcome with their own cards.

every friday

Following the example set by Bond Street Holy Blossom Reform Synagogue, Goel Tzedec Synagogue on University Avenue, the show place of Toronto Orthodoxy, is now advertising divine services in the daily press. There was a time when there wasn't enough anathema in the world for the Orthodox to pour on the Reform, one reason being this very advertising in the newspapers. The Reform synagogue was already enough like a theatre with choir, sexes mixed and different-priced-seats in the gallery from those downstairs, claimed the Orthodox. Also Jews, thank God, know when it is Friday night and they can find out very easily where any synagogue is if they want to without the assistance of the newspapers. The Gentiles are the only ones who might not know about lectures in the synagogues, so the advertising must be meant for them. Why? Since when did the Jews need to draw the Gentiles to the synagogue? et cetera, including every possible and impossible argument and sneer. Now the Orthodox are doing it. And the ribald, abandoned ones, those who have sunk too low for veneration of phylacteries and praying shawls, for interest in arguments about choirs or no choirs, about hats in synagogue or no hats, and who care not a tinker's penny where the women sit, these have one thrill left anyway: When will Goel Tzedec Synagogue announce Sunday services? What?

A letter to the editor from a certain person in a certain city reads: "To those of us thinking Jews who attended services at Orthodox synagogues during the recent high holy days, the need was never more exemplified for the necessity of the forming of a congregation that will draw and hold the younger generation of Jewry in this part of the city. I attended a synagogue capable of seating many people. I have been attending this house of prayer for a number of years but the managers are utterly ignorant and oblivious of the needs of the younger and more thinking members of its congregation. Services which last an unreasonably long time are still adhered to; the dignity of the services are more hurt by appeals for money which is promised but in many cases not paid; there are comings and goings all during the most solemn portions of the ritual. Above all, we still lack a religious leader who can give a spiritual message on holy days. There are many of us in this vicinity who, although not sympathising entirely with all the precepts of Reform Judaism, would nevertheless welcome a temple and support it in preference to the undignified and at times farcical services performed at this synagogue. I would suggest to those who are interested in the matter that services be shortened; that absolute silence be maintained during the services; that a separate and instructive service be held for children on holy days and finally, above all, that a competent minister be secured who will be a real religious leader to us in every sense of the word—one we can look up to and admire and who will inspire us spiritually. Many of us feel that we can dispense with a chazan if the congregation can not afford one. Numerous younger people are lost to traditional Judaism each year through causes I have outlined above and because of the blindness and narrow-mindedness of synagogue authorities. It is high time they awoke! I would be pleased to hear from those similarly minded to myself, who have the future of Judaism at heart, so that we may approach the synagogue authorities in a body. And failing their consent, I feel that if the number I spoke to during the holidays is any criterion, there is a sufficient number of us interested to form a congregation that will further the ends of our religion, that will conduct services with dignity and will be an inspiration to follow and live up to the principles of Judaism and also one that will give due attention to the needs of children. If those in sympathy will communicate with me, I feel certain we can accomplish much. No doubt the REVIEW will be kind enough to assist us with publicity necessary about meetings and plans."

The above letter was intended for the mail box and was signed by the writer, but it will bear some comment and for obvious reasons the writer's name and that of the synagogue are withheld. It was written by an earnest, serious-minded young person whose criticism is doubtless well founded and is run here to give the old fogies in synagogues an inkling of what the support of the future is thinking about. In all sorts of churches there is stupid neglect of the young who are to be the mainstays very soon and in all such churches, Jewish or Gentile, there are young folks in disgust or open revolt. Not enough room is made for the young people in councils held by men who are usually elderly or old but not always wise and seldom forward-looking. The situation described by the letter-writer is common in many synagogues and it is uncalled for to mention rabbi. He is not alone nor are his synagogue-managers.

The letter-writer may be overly optimistic about the followers would have in demanding reforms or in forming another synagogue moulded nearer to the heart's desire. People are willing to talk when there is no occasion as yet for action. Ten in agreement seem a host of adherents in conversation but they often grow luke-warm, close-minded and remote when it comes time to make a move. If twenty-five people in the city of the letter-writer are interested enough to inquire about him from the REVIEW, his name and address will be sent to them gladly. And then the war on noise, indecorum, tedious services, stiff-necked obstructionists, and other things can begin, fellows, and the best of luck!

Social Life in 1904—
Do You Remember?—

In Montreal the bar-mitzvah of Bertie Pashinkofsky took place at Shaar Hashomayim synagogue. Eugene Gordon was his teacher. At the parents' home 150 guests were received. L. Holstein, F. Shlp, J. Ettenberg, A. Kaplansky spoke. Joseph Lyon, age five months, son of Mr. and Mr. C. Pierce, died at 410 Sanguinet Street. Mrs. J. L. Vineberg, of Sherbrooke, was in town. Louis Vineberg, of Detroit, was in the city. S. W. Jacobs, of Cornwall, was here. Miss Sady Vogal Breaky, of Minneapolis, was the guest of Mrs. J. B. Rubinovich, St. Urbain Street. Misses Millie and Bertha Frank, of Marlin, Texas, visited their uncle, H. Samuel, Drummond Street. Mrs. N. Phillips and Miss Eva Phillips, of Cornwall, visited Mrs. H. Vineberg. Mr. and Mrs. L. Margolese, Westmount, returned from Europe. Miss Ida Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Harris, Shuter Street, became engaged to S. Jacques Ornstein, of Halifax, N.S. Mr. and Mrs. John Michels went to live in their new home in Westmount. The engagement was announced of Miss Judith Wormser, of New York, and Markus Roman. The bar-mitzvah of Abraham Rapp took place at Chevra Kadisha synagogue. J. Diamond, president, was toastmaster at the reception at the parents' home. The father was a member of the building committee which took care of the erection of the synagogue. Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bilsky, Bishop Street, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Fischel, Grosvenor Avenue, Westmount, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goltman, Tupper Street, a son. Rabbi Abramowitz preached at Shaar Hashomayim synagogue on "Revelations of God in Nature." Mrs. Sophie Gittleson, age 66, died leaving three sons and one daughter, Abraham L. Gittelson and Jules Gittleson, M. E. Swarn, of Chicago, and Mrs. W. A. Jacobs, of Montreal. The funeral took place from her home, 474 St. Denis Street. In Winnipeg the president of congregation House of Jacob was P. Lechtzier and the secretary Joseph J. Goodman. The synagogue cost $10,000. A number of men undertook to establish a Holy Blossom synagogue with short service, sermon every Sunday morning and no separation of the sexes. H. A. Isaacs was the first Jew to hold an appointment in the civil service of Manitoba. Mrs. Tupper told the officers of the Hebrew Benevolent Society and Dr. Gaster's Roumanian Aid Society that the Winnipeg General Hospital needed funds and something should be done to show appreciation for care of the Jewish sick.

Editor,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

May I saw a few words in reference to Rabbi Isserman's institution of a Sunday morning service and also about Reform Judaism? From my observations of Liberal Judaism until the present, for I am an Orthodox, I have come to what seems to me the one conclusion and which is contrary to the popular belief, that the reforms are made to strengthen rather than to weaken Judaism. The changes are made with a view that the constantly changing modern world may better fit into the spiritual life of the Jews. They certainly are not made in order to transgress the old customs and traditions of Judaism.

But, however, these concepts of mine were completely shattered when Rabbi Isserman announced his Sunday morning service. Had even the Sabbath morning service been substituted by the one on Sunday, I think it would have been a better step. The present economic and business conditions prevent most from attending the synagogue on Sabbath morning. Hence, such a step as I suggest would be made so that the members would attend at least Sunday not because it is Sunday, but it is the day when [illegible] to worship God.

But wherein does Rabbi Isserman see the advantage of conducting a Sunday morning service over the service hitherto conducted on Friday evening? Certainly, following up the lines of my argument, I cannot see the logic in his change. I think, on the contrary, that most are better able and would rather go on Friday evening than on Sunday morning. I think, also, that Friday evening is about the freest evening for all and no such change and transfer to Sunday morning should have been made, as it was absolutely unnecessary.

Thanking you, sir, I remain,

SEYMOUR HERMANT.

HAGUE TRIBUNAL HAS NO JURISDICTION IN NAVROMATIS CASE

The litigation that has been pending before the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague, involving a claim of over a million dollars' damages made by the Greek engineer, N. Navromatis, against the British Government, has finally been thrown out by the court as being outside of its jurisdiction. Navromatis' claim is based on a concession which he had obtained from the Ottoman Government for the electrification of Jerusalem. After an argument presented by Sir Douglas Hogg in behalf of the British Government, claiming that this should be regarded merely as a breach of contract, involving no breach of international obligations, the court by a vote of seven to four decided that it had no jurisdiction in the matter.

DR. HANANEL APPOINTED GRAND RABBI OF SOFIA

Dr. Acher Hananel, a native of Sumla, and a graduate of the Law School of the University of Sofia, has been appointed Grand Rabbi of Sofia. He was sent by the Jewish Consistory of Bulgaria about five years ago to pursue courses at the Rabbinic Seminary, from which institution he was graduated.

As a result of the decision of the Jewish community of Philipopolis that each Jew must pay a certain tax toward the Keren Hayesod, a number of non-Zionists, who refused to pay this tax, decided to form a separate community and have been endeavouring to obtain the recognition of the authorities.

POLITICAL CONDITION OF POLISH JEWRY IMPROVING

Although the economic position of the Jews in Poland is still very precarious, their political position has undergone considerable improvement ever since the Pilsudsky Government has been in power. Poland has apparently succeeded in establishing order in its domains more quickly than any other East European Government, and this reacted most favorably on the attitude of the Polish people toward the Jews, whom they are learning to regard as an integral part of the country and that it was for the welfare of the land that Jews should be treated properly and equitably. Of course, anti-Semitism still exists and frequently assumes a menacing aspect, but the Government cannot be held responsible for it and the Club of Jewish Deputies is constantly guarding the rights of their constituencies. Only recently, Deputy Hartglass, President of the Club, brought to the notice of the Minister of Education the fact that at the opening of the schools some colleges have shown discrimination against Jewish applicants and the Minister assured him that if any such infringement has occurred it was without his knowledge and will immediately be corrected.

Dissatisfaction was expressed at the recent ordinance issued by the Government to the Polish Rabbinate, prohibiting them from admitting proselytes. This was a reversal to an old Czaristic law which prohibited Jews from accepting proselytes of native Christians. This law has never been repealed and the new ordinance was regarded as infringing upon the religious freedom guaranteed by the Constitution. The Warsaw Rabbinate issued a statement showing that since 1918, o ly twenty-one such proselytes were admitted, while all the others were either former converts from Judaism or sons of converts who wished to return to their old faith. The statement further asserts that the number of those admitted is only a small fraction of the large number of applications and that the Rabbinate has been extremely cautious in this matter. Only such as have proved their sincerity in their desire to embrace Judaism were admitted. Jewish leaders made representation to the Government regarding the ordinance, on the standpoint of principle, regarding it contrary to the elemental rights secured by the Constitution.

Because of the scarcity of Jewish teachers competent to teach the Jewish religion and history in the Polish High Schools, where these subjects form part of the curriculum, the Government is about to introduce a special department of Jewish studies in the University of Warsaw, which will be of help in training Jewish teachers. A Jewish High School, in which Yiddish will be the language of instruction, is being erected at Warsaw, with funds obtained chiefly from the working classes in Poland and elsewhere, including Palestine. A small sum is still needed to complete the school and an appeal is made to the Jewish workingmen to come forward and assist in completing the new enterprise. The School Commission of the Jewish Community granted a subsidy of 25,000 zlotys for the coming year to the Yiddish secular schools, from a budget of 807,718 zlotys for Jewish cultural institutions in Warsaw.

The economic condition, however, is still very grave among the Jews of Poland. The petty Jewish trader is still made to bear the great burden of the taxes, which are chiefly imposed on the trades, and he often finds himself helpless and destitute. For him, the only solution appears to be emigration, but the question is, whither?

COBBLER, 77, GETS EDUCATION AT HIS LAST

Louis Abramowitz, seventy-seven, believes in the maxim, "It is never too late to learn." Abramowitz is the oldest student of the approximately 30,000 who are attending the evening elementary schools of New York.

Three years ago he was an illiterate. Last year he knew enough about the English language and American government to get out citizenship papers. But this did not end Abramowitz's career as a student. He took up the elementary courses at Evening School No. 150, Sackman and Dumont Street, Brooklyn, which will make it possible for him to get a public school education.

Any evening will find him engrossed in his books, and with his stubby, gnarled hands laboriously writing out assigned lessons. He hasn't been absent or late for the three years he has attended school.

"Regardless of rain, blizzard or storm, Mr. Abramowitz is sure to be in his seat when class starts," said Ignius Hornstein, principal of the school.

"He is a good student, bright and wide-awake, and anxious to learn," said Beatrice Norton.

The reporter found Abramowitz in his class-room, reading aloud a passage from a history book about Lincoln's election.

"What makes me want to study?" he asked when in the corridor. "I always wanted a good education, ever since I could remember. But in Russia—you know, dark Russia—I couldn't. And then I came to America.

"Here I had to make a living for my wife and five children. It was hard. I had to think all the time of bread, not school. I'm a shoemaker by trade and that's not like being a banker. You have to work for every penny and the hours are long.

"But every time I saw the children, with their beautiful dresses and white shirts and with their books and pencils in their arms, it was like a slap in the face.

"Now all my children are married, God bless them. That means that I don't have to make so much, that I have more time for myself and that I can get away evenings.

"The Judge gave me a fine compliment when I became a citizen. He couldn't think of one question I couldn't answer."

Then suddenly Abramowitz recalled he forgot to bring his homework. "Instead of getting a good mark, teacher will think I'm a dummox. You know how teachers are," he said.

JEWS DRIVEN FROM BUDAPEST SCHOOLS

Announcing that they are going to make it impossible for a Jewish student to attend Hungarian universities, groups of Christian Magyar students have attacked and driven away every Jewish student who attempted to attend lectures in the Budapest Institute of Technology and the Debreczen University.

Though stoned, many Jewish students succeeded in remaining in other universities. The educational authorities declare they will close the schools where trouble occurs, but so far anti-Jewish demonstrations have met little official resistance. Principals of several schools have succeeded in exercising authority, but not in the case of the Institute of Technology at Debreczen.

In a test case at Debreczen a Jewish student, Andreas Fischer, supported by the rector of the university, Friedrich Verzar, entered a lecture hall, though warned by Christian students to remain outside. He was driven out but brought back by Verzar.

All the students except Fischer then left the hall and waited for him to come out. The lecturer, however, slipped him out a back door.

The rioting began in National protests to a play by Sotzmori dealing with desertion in the war. But the agitation has lost contact with its original object and, the Government taking no effective police measures, has continued.

Important results have been obtained by several German scholars who are engaged in excavations in Palestine. Professor Sellin succeeded in unearthing some remains of the ancient city of Shechem, dating back to the Canaanitish period. Some of the remains date back to about 1700 B.C.E.

FEDERATION EMPLOYMENT NEWS

An inventory just taken of the current work of the Family Welfare Bureau of Federation reveals that there are seventy-seven straight relief families, or cases where regular weekly allowances, and in some instances, allowances plus rent, are granted; sixteen families receiving occasional relief, and nine families for whom rent is paid. In addition to the families mentioned for whom financial assistance in some form or other is provided, the Bureau is handling sixty-three cases requiring personal service, that is, visitation, advice and supervision. The Bureau is also making numerous investigations for Jewish out-of-town agencies. The number of these in 1927 comprised up to date, sixty-three investigations. During the last three weeks the employment service of the Bureau has been resumed, with the result that fifty-five applicants for employment were registered and eleven placements were made. In this connection the Bureau is trying to secure the co-operation of Jewish employers to help reduce the amount of relief granted or the warding off of potential dependency.

"Can a woman reason?"

It must be so, because our recently completed enlargement to our wash plant is filled almost to capacity with family washes. The reasoning is, of course, that there is absolutely no sense in turning the basement of a home into a laundry each week when this laundry does better work, does it more cheaply and with less wear and tear than any home method yet devised. And that we have proved this to be the case is evidenced by the daily increasing number of permanent customers we are adding to our list. We welcome phone calls.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

For free copies write: G. A. ELLIOTT, Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

Rubin—Goodfellow

The wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Goodfellow, of their third daughter, Anne, and Joseph Rubin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Rubin. Rabbi Berger officiated. Chrysanthemums and baby chrysanthemums in autumn shades were used as decorations throughout the house. The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in green, finely tucked, green hat to match, and also wore a corsage of pale yellow roses and lilies-of-the-valley. At a dinner for the immediate family and friends covers were laid for one hundred. The bride and groom left on their honeymoon to Cleveland and other points, and will live in Detroit.

FELLOWSHIP AWARDED

The Ellen Mickle Fellowship for 1924 has been awarded to Bernard Willinsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Willinsky. This scholarship is one of the most coveted in the University. Mr. Willinsky is a graduate of the dental faculty of the University of Toronto.

This fellowship, being the annual income from an endowment of $25,000, was established by the late Dr. W. J. Mickle, as "The Ellen Mickle Fellowship," to be given to the student (or students) who in the examinations at the end of the fifth year of the six years' course in medicine, shall have taken honours of the first class in at least three-fourths of the subjects of that year, and shall have obtained the highest marks in the examinations. The award is made provided the student proceed to the degree of bachelor of medicine in this university and spend one year in post-graduate study approved by the Council of the Faculty of Medicine. In 1923 it went to J. Markowitz. Mr. Willinsky is a member of the Alpha Omega Alpha honorary medical fraternity. He is a brother of Dr. A. I. Willinsky, of Western Hospital and Mount Sinai Hospital.

LOEW'S

If you wish to laugh, go to college. Thousands of people will take the fun course at Loew's next week, where Buster Keaton will hold forth on the screen in his new photocream, "College," a spectacular United Artists feature with a campus background.

Imagine frozen-faced Buster as a flashily-attired rah rah boy and would-be athlete? Getting into a scrape a minute—and getting out of them in the most ludicrous ways imaginable!

The story of "College" first introduces Keaton as an awkward, book-wormish sort of youth. He is a mamma's boy in high school and when he enters university, he is imbued with the idea of winning medals as a scholar. Then along comes a girl (Ann Cornwall), who fires ambitions in the model student.

How he unexpectedly performs the athletic feats he has dreamed of, wins the girl and is acclaimed as a real hero furnish a sensational climax.

Some of the supporting players who share honours with Buster in the United Artists comedy are Ann Cornwall, leading lady; Grant Withers, Harold Goodwin, Snitz Edwards, James Mack, Buddy Mason and Flora Bramley.

Kramer and Bayle, "the happy-go-lucky pair," and Harvard Collegians, a great jazz band aggregation, top the vaudeville bill, which is all good.

Mrs. Rose Goldstein, said to have been 106 years old, died at Bellevue Hospital, New York.
